Chick

Cut out two puppet body pieces in yellow, the beak in orange, and three wing/comb pieces in ivory.

Using white embroidery floss, attach the wings to the front of one body panel.

Next, use black floss to attach the eyes.

Finally, use tan floss to attach the beak by sewing a straight stitch across the middle of the diamond, forming two 3D triangular beaks.

Stack the two body pieces together, and place the comb between the two layers of yellow felt, at the top of the finger puppet, with the three bumps sticking out, but enough felt still inside to be caught by the stitches as you sew the puppet together.

Using tan floss, begin sewing at a bottom corner and stitch around the entire arch of the puppet, catching the comb in the stitches at the top.

Lamb

Cut out two puppet body pieces in ivory, and all of the lamb pieces in white (body, hair, nose and ears).

Begin by using white floss to attach the lamb body, lamb hair, and nose.

Use black floss to sew the nose detail and attach the eyes.

Stack the two puppet body pieces, and place the ears between the layers on each side of the puppet head.

Using white thread, begin sewing at the bottom of the puppet and continue up the arch, attaching the ears when you reach the head.

Bunny

Cut out two puppet body pieces, the ears, and the paws in caramel felt. Cut out the bunny body panel in ivory, and two ears and the nose in pink.

Use white floss to attach the bunny body panel.

Next, use pink floss to attach the nose, and connect the pink inner ear to the outer ears.

(Note: if you don't want the pink stitching to show in the back of your ears, make sure you use shallow stitches.)

Use tan floss to attach the bunny paws, and the ears.

Use black floss to add mouth and paw details and attach the eyes.

Stack both puppet body pieces and use tan floss to sew around the entire arch of the puppet.
